INTRODUCTION TO HONESTY AND INTEGRITY OF THE PERSON

Course overview

Covers the importance of understanding and complying with the organization's Code, policies and the law, being honest and forthright, consequences of not being truthful during an investigation, the critical role of internal resources in helping resolve challenges and conflicts, and the importance of asking questions, and reporting concerns and potential violations internally.

What causes people to withdraw from participation in life? A carefree child grows reserved and wary as a teenager. A successful career woman who leaves one personal relationship after the other suffers from lack of self-esteem. A retired man looks back at his life with regret over the choices he made.

And he developed a precise way for you to help individuals regain their feelings of honesty and self-worth. Broken dreams and regret about the past do not have to continue to pull people away from involvement in the present.

There is an actual mechanism which makes people withdraw from relationships, from families, groups and, indeed, their dreams. And such situations can be remedied. In this course, you will discover how you can help others regain their integrity—and their zest for life. It is a new view of an old problem, and what it means is that you no longer need to sit on the sidelines and helplessly observe the anguish of others. Instead, you will have in your hands tools which thoroughly resolve such misery.
