COURSE ON CRITICAL PHASES OF LIFE

Course Outline:

Emerging adulthood, viewed through the lens of life course health development, has the potential to be a very positive developmental stage with postindustrial societies giving adolescents and emerging adults a greater opportunity for choice and exploration but also greater challenges with greater educational and social role requirements. Over the life course, individuals will face a series of critical transitional periods, which require personal motivation, selfefficacy and a range of support mechanisms to cope with the challenges of living. These challenges may be age-related, educational, social and psychological, and we can all reflect back to these transitory times in our lives and how we traversed them.
